

All investments are subject to risk, including the possible loss of principal. Results from other time periods may differ. Active investing may have higher costs than passive investing and may underperform the broad market or passive peers with similar objectives. Passive investing may lag the performance of actively managed peers as holdings are not reallocated based on changes in market conditions or outlooks on specific securities.

To ensure the security of your personal information and assets, and to avoid unnecessary losses, please follow these guidelines

Never share your account password with anyone, regardless of who they are. Doing so may lead to your account being compromised, resulting in financial losses.

Do not trust links or attachments from unknown sources, and avoid visiting suspicious websites.

Your personal information and passwords are your "keys" in the digital world. Properly protecting them will effectively reduce the risks to your personal assets and privacy. Always remain vigilant to ensure information security.
